Hi {FIRST_NAME|Friend},

If you were ill or seriously injured and couldn’t speak for yourself, would your loved ones know the kind of medical care you want?

Only about 37% of adults in the U.S. have an Advance Directive, a legal document in which a person identifies a medical representative and states what kind of medical care they want if they cannot speak for themselves. While completing an Advance Directive is especially important for those over age 50, the current COVID-19 pandemic compels everyone age 18 and older to complete one.

But it’s difficult to talk about, or even think about, isn’t it? Most of us don’t want to imagine ourselves in a situation where we’re sick or hurt and can’t speak for ourselves, the possibility of being a burden on our families, or even our
