Hi {FIRST_NAME|Friend},

Are you in a state of information overload? It can sometimes be hard to look for and find the information you need when there’s just so much of it out there.

Especially now, you need accurate information you can count on. Whether you’re looking for information on COVID-19 testing events, access to food, mental health resources, financial assistance, and more, The Next Connection is here for you.

The Next Connection is a phone line manned by helpful, bilingual staff, providing resource and community information to anyone and everyone who calls.

Sometimes, the resource given by The Next Connection is a service provided by The Next Door, and other times it’s not. The Next Connection links each and every caller with the resources they need.

If you’re looking for information, call The Next Connection. You can also access resource information on The Next.
